

COMMUNITY HEALTH NEEDS ASSESSMENT

Every three years, Baptist Health completes a Community Health Needs Assessment (CHNA) for each of its hospitals to identify the health needs of our communities. The CHNA supports our mission to improve health in our communities.

Our CHNA process includes obtaining feedback from public health agencies, community members, and other community partners. We review many data sources in our assessment to ensure we are considering all areas that impact the health of our communities. A conscious effort is made to ensure we are completing this process through a lens of health equity.

The priority health needs identified in each hospital community are listed below. Over the next few years, Baptist Health hospitals will work to address the following health needs through the Implementation Strategies, our CHNA action plan.
